Via degli Dei, Bologna to Florence - Italy

Via degli Dei, Bologna to Florence

8 days, PRICE FROM € 901

An ancient Roman military road connects Bologna to Firenze, running through an incredible landscape where history and nature merge in a six-day walking tale. Have you heard of the Via degli Dei, the Road of the Gods? Now you can walk it in a guided group, with each step telling you its one thousand legends.

We start in Bologna and arrive in Florence along the ancient “Flaminia militare” Roman road, the traces of which are still to be found under our feet; along the way we will encounter mountains named after Roman Gods, Roman amphitheatres, military cemeteries enshrined within the woods, and fossils of prehistoric shells embedded in the rock.

Our journey takes us from Piazza Maggiore in Bologna to Piazza della Signoria in Florence, the cradle of Renaissance, the much-coveted destination of the trip, where, after emerging from the beauty of Nature, we will admire the mastery of the human hand.

Route

Day 1 Bologna

Individual arrival in Bologna, a city with many attractions: you will be able to walk across the 7 chapels of the Santo Stefano Basilica, admire the city from the Torre degli Asinelli (“the Donkeys’ Tower”), and of course taste some tagliatelle al ragù. Do not miss a view of the illuminated Piazza Maggiore or the Piazza Grande, the subject of a famous song by Lucio Dalla, a bolognese songwriter who used to live a few meters away.

Day 2 From Bologna to Sasso Marconi, 20 km

From Piazza Maggiore, the heart of the city, you walk to the Portico di San Luca, built in 1674: this is the longest covered street in the world, 4 km dominated by 666 arches, which extends all the way to the Basilica of San Luca.

You walk across Parco Tolon where the Casalecchio lock-gate has been managing the flow of the Reno River into the city of Bologna for 800 years. You reach your accommodation in Sasso Marconi, named in honour of the Nobel Prize winning scientist Guglielmo Marconi who was born here.

Distance: 20 km

Elevation gain: +522/-504 m

Day 3 From Badolo to Monzuno, 17 km

After breakfast you take a short transfer to Badolo, from where you start walking towards Monzuno.

The star of today's walk is the Contrafforte Pliocenico, a rocky bastion that rose from the shallow sea during the Pliocene age (2-4 million years ago) – the proofs of which are to be found in the fossils of ancient shells still embedded in the local rocks.

Along the route you encounter sandy trails that climb to the edge of the abyss along the spectacular path that ascends to the top of Mount Adone, with its characteristic stone towers.

Your destination is Monzuno, where we recommend you visit 's charcuterie shop, the temple of local food and wine thanks to its meat protected by Slow Food.

Distance: 17 km

Elevation gain: +755/-580 m

Day 4 From Monzuno to Bruscoli, 19,5 km

This section is especially beautiful as you walk through immense green fields and chestnut woods. At your feet are Roman paving stones of the "Flaminia Militare", the Roman road that used to link Bologna to Arezzo; you will see traces of the Roman passage still visible on the stones to Pian di Balestra, where you find ourselves at the border between Emilia and Tuscany.

Today's destination is Bruscoli, where you spend the night in a charming Agriturismo in the hills.

Distance: 19,5 km

Elevation gain: +975/-670 m

Day 5 From Bruscoli to San Piero a Sieve, 30 or 22 km

We continue to the Passo della Futa, the biggest German cemetery in Italy, where more than 30.000 German soldiers were laid to rest. A place built for the war, now immersed in silence and peace.

You then descend the Futa Pass. Monte Gazzaro, with its white cross, is the highest peak that we reach today; from here you will admire the brehtaking view of the Firenzuola valley and Mugello.

A wide down-hill path leads you to Sant'Agata, with its museums dedicated to both sacred and peasant art. At this point you will begin to notice the scenery changing around you, a more typical Tuscan landscape.

At San Piero to Sieve you can treat yourself to the robust local cuisine of Mugello, and enjoy the typical Ramerino bread (a Tuscan Rosemary bread).

Optional transfer: from Sant'Agata take the bus to San Piero a Sieve to shorten the itinerary

Distance: 30 or 22 km

Elevation gain: +740/-1470 m

Day 6 From San Piero a Sieve to Olmo, 21 km

After leaving San Piero you continue towards the Castello del Trebbio, one of the residences of the Medici family, now private. This spot offers exceptional views that extend over the Mugello valley and Lake Bilancino.

The route continues through large olive groves, continuously climbing to finally reach the Montesenario Monastery, which dominates the mountain with the same name - the view from here, encompassing the entire Mugello Valley, is the "gift from the gods" for your efforts!

Distance: 21 km

Elevation gain: +945/-710 m

Day 7 From Olmo to Fiesole/Florence, 12 or 7 km

You are now on the outskirts of Florence, the end of your journey is at hand and there is much excitement! Today's walk is shorter and we begin by heading towards Fiesole, where you pass through Vetta le Croci, a place where 200,000 barbarians (killed during the battle of Montereale, 405 A.D.) are said to be buried.

From there you continue descending towards Fiesole, a terraced Etruscan town overlooking the city of Florence. Here you can visit the well preserved Roman amphitheatre, climb to reach the San Francesco Church and admire the view of Florence, before heading to the Renaissance city for your last triumphal steps.

Florence doesn't need presentation - but you can decide how to enjoy it: after visiting the must-sees such as the Cathedral and the Uffizi, look for the Florence out of the beaten path. Enjoy a walk in the Oltrarno area, through narrow streets filled with artisanal workshops and little restaurants, and enjoy your last dinner in a rustic trattoria.

Distance: 12 or 7 km

Elevation gain: +400/-535 m

Day 8 Depart from Florence

Last day included. Tour ends after breakfast.
